DETAILED ACTION

1. This communication is responsive to amendment and remarks filed 7/16/07.

Claims 1-8 and 15-22 are currently pending in this application. Claims 9-14 have been cancelled. Of pending claims 1-8 and 15-22, claims 1-7 and 15 have been withdrawn from consideration as being drawn to a non-elected invention.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

2. The following is a quotation of the first paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall contain a written description of the invention, and of the manner and process of making and using it, in such full, clear, concise, and exact terms as to enable any person skilled in the art to which it pertains, or with which it is most nearly connected, to make and use the same and shall set forth the best mode contemplated by the inventor of carrying out his invention.

3. Claims 8 and 16-22 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, first paragraph, as failing to comply with the written description requirement. The claim(s) contains subject matter which was not described in the specification in such a way as to reasonably convey to one skilled in the relevant art that the inventor(s), at the time the application was filed, had possession of the claimed invention. Claim 8 has been amended to include the recitation "removing any component of the imaging gradient that encodes motion by oscillating at a regular frequency". Applicant points to paragraphs [0006] and [0060] for purported support for such limitation. Paragraph [0006] reads in its entirety:

"[0006] All of the methods described above employ separate motion encoding gradients to accumulate the phase in each voxel."

Paragraph [0060] reads in its entirety:

"[0060] The directions encoded by the phase and frequency encoding gradients can also be switched. So the motion in the other in-plane direction can be found using the same technique. FIG. 9A shows a pulse sequence 900 that differs from pulse sequence 800 in that the direction of the phase and frequency gradients are switched. Note that 904 and 914 are the phase encoding gradients. Pulse 904 is switched in like manner with respect to, pulse 804. From the phases of the four images, it is possible to solve for the motion in all three directions. "

There is simply, no description in these paragraphs, pertaining to the step of removing any component of the imaging gradient that encodes motion by oscillating at a regular frequency. The examiner has reviewed the whole specification anew and cannot find support for this step in any other place not indicated by applicant. Moreover, the drawings which applicant also point to as providing support for this limitation, contradict the limitation. Gradient components 612, 702 and 704 appear to oscillate at a regular frequency.

The same lack of support in the specification is found for newly submitted claim 22.

4. Applicant's arguments with respect to claim 8 have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.

5. Applicant's amendment necessitated the new ground(s) of rejection presented in this Office action. Accordingly, THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. See MPEP § 706.07(a). Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the date of this final action.
